

Moderator Details and Duties

ASBPA is implementing a hybrid conference to provide safe participation options for its members and partners. This means more of the operational side of hosting a conference will involve contact with online software and require being comfortable with technology. The good news is, if you can text you can moderate a session with the conference's event management app Whova!

Whova allows attendees to text questions from their phones and computers directly to the session moderator. No need to pass a mic around the room!

Moderators can then access all the questions from the app on their phone under “Moderation Tools”. Read the questions from the app or repeat a spoken question and no matter where our speakers or attendees are they can hear and respond.

We are looking for moderators who are:

- Comfortable navigating messaging technology
- Able to download the mobile Whova app
- Available to attend a training session in September
- And want to make ASBPA history in our first hybrid conference!
